DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office action is in response to the filing of this application. Claim 1-24 are pending in the application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 15 recites the phrase limitation "manipulating information". This phrase renders the claim vague and indefinite. It is not clear what the applicant mean by manipulating.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-24 are rejected under 35 USC 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dialog

(Primavera Introduces Primavera Expedition 7.0)

As per claim, Dialog discloses:

creating a project template, inputting project-related information into the project template [Paragraph 10 and 12], transferring the project template to a globally-accessible system; searching and identifying projects within the globally-accessible system (i.e. allow a user to and monitoring and tracking the projects using the globally-accessible system [Paragraphs 17]. Dialog does not expressly disclose transferring of the template to a globally-accessible system and searching and identifying projects with the globally-accessible system. It is old and well-known in the data processing art to transfer a project template to a global network and allowing project participants to search, modify or edit the project template with project information. Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate this well known teaching into Dialog so that a user or project participants can quickly and on the fly create new project documents.

As per claim 2, Dialog fails to expressly disclose wherein the project template comprises one or a plurality of spreadsheets. However, most templates comprise of a spreadsheet for easy input of information.

As per claim 3, Dialog further discloses wherein the globally-accessible system comprises a globally-distributed computer network [Paragraph 2].

As per claim 4, Dialog further discloses storing the project information within the globally-accessible system (i.e., a database for storing the project information) [Paragraph 10].

As per claim 5, Dialog further discloses wherein the project related information comprises any of risks [Paragraph 3].

As per claim 6, Dialog further discloses wherein the project related information further comprises any of project name, business location, data file name, user name, location of information within a database, and any additional field [Paragraph 6].

As per claim 7, Dialog further discloses wherein monitoring and tracking the projects further comprises managing and tracking the projects through the life-cycle of the projects [Paragraph 17].

As per claim 8, Dialog further discloses wherein the globally-accessible system may be accessed by a plurality of remote users simultaneously [Paragraph 2].

As per claims 9, and 14, Dialog teaches:

creating a project template, inputting project-related information into the project template [Paragraph 10 and 12], transferring the project template to a globally-accessible system; searching and identifying projects within the globally-accessible system (i.e. allow a user to and monitoring and tracking the projects using the globally-accessible system [Paragraphs 17]. Dialog does not expressly disclose transferring of the template to a globally-accessible system and searching and identifying projects with the globally-accessible system. It is old and well-known in the data processing art to transfer a project template to a global network and allowing project participants to search, modify or edit the project template with project information. Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate this well known teaching into Dialog so that a user or project participants can quickly and on the fly create new project documents. In addition, Dialog fails to expressly disclose wherein the project template comprises one or a plurality of spreadsheets. However, most templates comprise of a spreadsheet for easy input of information.

As per claim 10, Dialog further discloses wherein the globally-accessible system comprises a globally-distributed computer network [Paragraph 2].

Art Unit: 3623

As per claim 11, Dialog further discloses wherein the project related information comprises any of risks [Paragraph 3].

As per claim 12, Dialog further discloses wherein the project related information further comprises any of project name, business location, data file name, user name, location of information within a database, and any additional field [Paragraph 6].

As per claim 13, Dialog further discloses wherein monitoring and tracking the projects further comprises managing and tracking the projects through the life-cycle of the projects [Paragraph 17].

Claims 15, 18-22 are computerized system for ensuring process compliance associated with a project for performing the steps of method claim 1; therefore claim 15 is rejected under the same analysis relied upon of claim 1. In addition, Dialog discloses the receiving, storing (i.e., receiving and storing project information in a database [Paragraph 10] and manipulating information relating to the project information (the examiner interprets manipulating information relating to the project as “customizing the project information”. Note Paragraphs 10-12.

As per claim 16, Dialog fails to expressly disclose wherein the project template comprises one or a plurality of spreadsheets. However, most templates comprise of a spreadsheet for easy input of information.

As per claim 17, Dialog further discloses wherein the globally-accessible system comprises a globally-distributed computer network [Paragraph 2].

As per claim 23, Dialog further discloses wherein monitoring and tracking the projects further comprises managing and tracking the projects through the life-cycle of the projects [Paragraph 17].

Art Unit: 3623

As per claim 24, Dialog further discloses wherein the globally-accessible system may be accessed by a plurality of remote users simultaneously [Paragraph 2].
